Accidents plague area

Two men escaped injury Jan. 18 when the Valley Vacuum truck they were in hit the ditch approximately 1 kilometre west of Violet Grove.

At about 10:30 p.m. the driver, Marc St. Laurent of Drayton Valley, lost control of the vehicle "because of the icy roads," said Cpl. Chris Lee.

This was only one of 20 accidents that occurred from Jan. 14-20 in the local area, he said.

They are all a result of exceptionally icy conditions caused by freezing rain, Lee added.

There were no serious injuries in any of the accidents.

No injuries were reported in a truck accident near Violet Grove.

County Leduc teachers take strike action

By Gail Poon

Classrooms were empty Monday after teachers officially walked off the job in support of wage demands.

Talks broke down Friday between the Leduc County Board of Education and the Alberta Teachers Association when the two sides again failed to reach a mutually acceptable settlement.

No meetings were held during the weekend — no further negotiations are scheduled to date.

"They told us Friday they would call us and they haven't," ATA negotiator Bill Anderson said Monday. "Maybe they're not interested in trying to resolve the problem."

"We are prepared to meet any time to try to resolve this — unless we sit down and talk, it can't be resolved."

The school board was served strike notice last Tuesday exactly 72 hours prior to the legally staged walk-outs.

About 230 full-time and 20 substitute teachers left their posts in 17 county schools.

Approximately 3,500 students and 400 early childhood services (kindergarten) pupils are affected by the strike, with school closures throughout the county from New Sarepta to Lindsdale.

Anderson said the teachers are prepared to support their demands. "Taking strike action is very, very serious. The teachers gave consideration to all aspects when they made their decision."

"I'm sure they're prepared to live with it," he added.

Reeve Norman Bittner, who chairs the school board's negotiating committee, said although nothing is planned at this time the strike will be discussed at a regularly scheduled board meeting Tuesday Jan. 23.

"There's no way of telling how long the strike will last. The board's decision and the teachers' decision made within the next few days will determine the length," he maintained, adding he is hopeful a settlement can be reached soon.

The board's two final offers last week were two and three-year contracts. The two-year offer was for zero per cent in 1984 and 2.33 in 1985; while the three-year contract provided for zero increase in 1984, 2.5 in 1985 and 2.5 in 1986.

According to school board officials the two-year offer is the same dollar amount with the same

Decision about Drayton Valley teachers' local expected

By Carol Dietrich
Drayton Valley teachers have to wait less than two weeks to find out whether or not they get the nod to form their own local.

The five-man task force appointed to look into the teachers' request will present its report to the provincial executive council of the Alberta

Teachers' Association (ATA) Feb. 1. A decision is expected the same day.

Local teachers were preparing themselves for a longer wait after a meeting last fall.

When (Alberta) ATA president Nadine Thomas came to Drayton Valley (in October) she said that the executive council would probably have to take the matter to the association's annual representatives' assembly in the spring for a final decision," said local organizer Wally Heinrichs.

"There are 400 to 500 delegates at the assembly and all of them would not have a handle on the situation.

"The chances would be slim that we would get approval," he added.

After considering the circumstances of this particular case and deciding the request was legally sound and within normal bylaws, ATA officials have decided that the provincial executive council had jurisdiction in this matter, said Heinrichs.

That was a welcome turn of events for teachers from the five Drayton Valley schools. "We were really relieved."

He said the local teachers are optimistic that now their request will be approved. "If we are turned down, I don't know what their reasons will be."

We gave them a clear message that we are prepared to take responsibility for our own local, he added.

"If our request is rejected, it will present us with another opportunity to pursue the matter further. We would have to look at their reasons and would likely get legal advice."

This case will affect how other similar proposals will be dealt with, Heinrichs said.

"The ATA is concerned with the precedent it will set if it gives us the go-ahead."

If the Drayton Valley ATA local is formed, it would work with the present local as a bargaining unit and Parkland County would be the first in the province to contain two locals.

Leduc Board of Education prepared

Contingency plan in place

A Leduc Board of Education contingency plan was put into effect when the teachers' strike became a reality.

According to school board chairman, Albert Klapstein, all student activities will cease with the closure of county schools, including extracurricular activities. However, the schools will stay open for community use.

The busing of students enrolled in school outside the county jurisdiction will continue with transportation provided to Edmonton, Leduc and Drayton Valley.

Supervised exam writing centres have been established in Leduc for Grade 12 students from Calmar and New Sarepta, while western area students will write in Warburg. The centres are designed to permit students to take scheduled departmental exams Tuesday, Jan. 29; Wednesday Jan. 30; and Thursday Jan. 31, confirmed Klapstein.

All marks for teachers' tests are updated to Jan. 18, he added. If the strike continues grading will be based on those results rather than term exams.

The contingency plan will remain in effect while the strike lasts Klapstein notes. "We would have to review the situation at regular intervals to make whatever decisions are necessary as we go along."

and rate as City of Leduc teachers settled for last week. City teachers agreed to a two-year contract calling for a zero increase in 1984, 1.5 per cent Jan. 1, 1985 and 2.5 per cent from Sept. 1, 1985 to Dec. 31, 1985.

Both county offers were rejected by the ATA. Anderson said the teachers still want 4.5 per cent over two years but during negotiations, tables revolved "combination" on two occasions. He refused to elaborate saying, "The nitty-gritty of the offer is impossible to explain - nobody would understand."

According to Bittner the ATA's last tabled offer Friday was zero from Jan. 1, 1984 to June 30, 1984, one per cent from July 1, 1984 to Dec. 31, 1984, two per cent from Jan. 1, 1985 to June 30, 1985 and one per cent from July 1, 1985 to Dec. 31, 1985.

Bittner said the ATA has budgeted "a little" from its original position maintaining in terms of net dollars the two sides are almost in the area of one per cent apart. He noted one per cent translates to about $8,000 per year to the board.

The county reeve reaffirmed that any school board offer above two per cent would have to be raised by going directly to ratepayers.

County teachers were $800 to $1,000 behind the provincial average in 1984 while in 1985, they are between $1,000 and $1,200 behind, contended Anderson.

"I am not prepared to continue to be that far behind," he said, explaining City of Edmonton teachers earn $1,500 more on an annual basis than county teachers.

County teachers are presently ranked in the bottom 25 per cent at the provincial level, admitted Bittner. He said a first year teacher with four years university experience makes $22,500 while a teacher with four years of training and 11 years experience earns $38,084.

Anderson suggests the county school board must change its attitude, pointing to the fact the 1983 agreement wasn't ratified until Jan. 1984.

Curling iron causes fire

Fire caused about $20,000 damage to a single-wide trailer in Drayton Valley Jan. 16.

At 2:10 p.m. firemen were called to the trailer at 103 Western Trailer Park.

"We were able to save the majority of it," said fire chief Sheldon Fuson.

"Heat and smoke caused most of the damage."

It didn't take long to douse the flames, he said. "The fire was under control in about 15 minutes."

A curling iron was found to be the cause of the fire. "It was inadvertently left on and was laying on some combustible materials."

There were no injuries because no one was home when the flames broke out.

The trailer belongs to Ella Laughlin.

The fire caused some $20,000 damage.

Entwistle man begins term

Councillor sworn in Long-time Entwistle resident, Dave Gylander, began his term as the newest village councillor following the swearing in ceremony on Monday, Jan. 14.

Gylander, who has been a resident of Entwistle since 1962, won the council position by acclamation. No other nominations for the one council seat vacated by the resignation of Monika Capps were entered on the Jan. 7 nomination day.

Gylander said he has "no big dreams" in taking the council position and that he will be spending some time finding out how everything works and will then see what he can do.

Gylander is employed part-time at Kirk's Mini Mart in the meat department. He formerly owned the grocery which was purchased by Kirk's in March of 1983. Gylander said he felt he would have the time to dedicate to the council position now that he is only working part-time.

Talks continue

Talks continue today (Wednesday) in Edmonton on the proposed $115 million pulp and paper mill for Drayton Valley.

Mayor Bob Mayhew, town manager Manny Doel and councillor Charlie Miner were scheduled to listen in on talks between the developers and the province, and then, the Drayton Valley representatives would meet with Makin people.

Makin Pulp and Paper Ltd. of Calgary are still involved in tense negotiations with the province over the question of funding and forest rights.

The developers have notified the government of a month-end deadline which they hope to meet, due to other commitments.

Mayor Mayhew says more than 100 letters of support have gone from the Drayton Valley business community to provincial ministers.

Deadline near on pulp mill

No news is good news.

That often used phrase is getting a working over these days from supporters of the proposed $115 million pulp and paper mill slated for Drayton Valley.

The developers, Makin Pulp and Paper Ltd. of Calgary, are involved in talks with provincial ministers. So far the government hasn't made any commitment to the project, so hopefully, no news this week will be good news in time for Makin's month-end deadline.

Makin vice-president Stewart Behie, says the provincial government has shown a lot of interest in the proposed mill but there is never anything in writing. Something in writing is required by the developers, and before their own imposed Jan. 31 deadline.

The Town of Drayton Valley and the business community have certainly thrown their support behind the project this past week, with more than 100 letters going to provincial ministers.

The man on the street has also expressed an interest in a possible second industry, employment for 400 during construction and initial operations, and the prospect of 300 new families.

This town, which has experienced its share of booms, is bracing itself for another which, hopefully, will come before month's end — at least some official document from the province that they support the plan.

Should teachers be allowed to go on strike?

Rod MacDonald
Lodgepole

They should have the right to strike. Everyone else does.

Betty Schmidle
Drayton Valley

If they are earning the mastery of their profession and they feel they aren't getting paid enough, then they should be able to go on strike.

Lynda Smashnuk
Drayton Valley

If they're teaching because they care about the children, then ethically they shouldn't strike.

Carol Wingert
Drayton Valley

No they shouldn't. I believe the board should negotiate with them. I was in Calgary when the teachers went on strike and the kids were out of school for two months.

Christa Unger
Drayton Valley

Teachers shouldn't be allowed to strike. They are setting a bad example for the kids. They should resolve their problems without going on strike.

"A great place to learn"

Work experience useful for senior student

Hi, my name is Ray Lainchbury, and as many of you know I have been taking Work Experience at The Western Review since the beginning of October. And now, the first semester is coming to a close and my last day here is Thursday, Jan. 24.

My first day was a Tuesday, and as luck would have it, the busiest day of the week. Everything looked so complicated and complex. I didn't know if I was going to like it here if every day was the same. The darkroom was set up a lot different than I had ever seen and I was sort of skeptical of working in that tiny room. Everybody was busy, people kept coming into the darkroom and asking for a better picture of something or they needed a new picture. Racine Guyon, the paper's full-time darkroom technician, seemed to have everything under control as the work piled higher. I was afraid it was always going to be like that. That Tuesday was the only one that I didn't know what I was doing, or what was in store the rest of the week.

Now, as my last day approaches, I think of The Western Review as a great place to learn about a small town newspaper. It doesn't look complicated or complex any longer either, I know where everything is and how to keep busy, most of the time. The darkroom is still the same tiny room that I was skeptical of, but now I know how to use the equipment and the chemicals involved.

Perspectives

by Ray Lainchbury

One of my major tasks was writing the Student at Random column. It was enjoyable to meet a new person each week and write their story. But like my first day on the job, my first column was a little scary.

I didn't know what to ask about that person. Luckily, I was assisted by Debbie Hunchak, one of the reporters, in finding out what the student liked and disliked, what his hobbies were, and so on. When somebody mentions "The Western Review" I automatically think of Wednesdays. You see, Wednesdays is when I got to stuff newspaper sections together. It sticks in my mind because it was the only job I didn't really like doing. I didn't complain because it was only a couple of hours once a week.

I am glad that I had the opportunity to take Work Experience through the high school program. The four months that I have been involved with the newspaper has been valuable in making my career decision. I would like to take photographic technology at NAIT and then take a photojournalism course at Grant MacEwan Community College. I would like to thank Mrs. Miner, the Work Experience co-ordinator, and I would especially like to thank the staff of The Western Review for making my semester educational and enjoyable.

Bird conservationists acknowledge support

Dear Editor,

As co-ordinator of Project Nest Box Alberta, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the individuals and organizations in your area who support this project. I would also like to thank those who attended the free seminar which we recently held in your community. We presented 30 seminars throughout the province and were very encouraged by the public's response to the current problems facing our native cavity nesting bird species.

The establishment of well-managed nest box trails is one of the most effective and rewarding methods of assisting these species in their battle against habitat loss and against the aggressive, introduced English Sparrow and European Starling. Project Nest Box Alberta was designed especially to assist interested Albertans in setting up and maintaining these trails. We have published a booklet entitled "Nest Boxes for Alberta Birds." The booklets were distributed at the seminars and are now available, free of charge, at each Alberta Fish and Wildlife office. We would like to encourage anyone who is interested to pick up a copy. If you have further questions or comments, please write to us at The Ellis Bird Farm, Box 5501, Red Deer, AB, T4N 6N1.

Yours in conservation,
Myrna D. Pearman

Lethbridge College looking for alumni

Dear Editor,

We are trying to find former students of Lethbridge Community College. The college has been operating since 1957 and we know there are many we have lost contact with. We have not had a major reunion up to this time.

On the weekend of March 23, 1985, LCC is sponsoring a reunion and buffalo banquet complete with western entertainment. Our celebration activities in with the Lethbridge Centennial. We want to let people know about this big event so that more information can be sent out if required.

We are writing to your paper because student survey records indicate alumni are among your readers. For further details call the LCC Alumni Association at 320-3476, or write to them at: LCC Alumni Association, Lethbridge Community College, 3000 College Drive South, Lethbridge, AB, T1K 1L6.

Thank you.

Seven volunteers on RCMP auxiliary force

Any healthy adult who has an interest in police work and can pass a security clearance is eligible to join the Drayton Valley RCMP's auxiliary force.

In existence for about seven years now, the force presently has one female and six male members.

The volunteers are generally not recruited, but approach the RCMP on their own, said Cst. Ken Patterson.

People applying to be an auxiliary do not have to measure up to any height or weight requirements.

But, even though auxiliary members are supplied with a uniform they are not issued with any firearms.

Their training is on the job, he said, but guest speakers do lecture them on different topics.

And they have a specific purpose. "The auxiliary members are there to provide assistance and some backup for police officers."

"They do have the authority to write up tickets and can direct traffic at an accident scene."

People employed in any occupation can join the force but most of them tend to be businessmen, he added.

"They (businessmen) are their own bosses so they can volunteer whenever they like. Employees make their employers aware of their involvement with the auxiliary force."

Most volunteers work on Friday or Saturday nights rather than during the week. And auxiliaries may be called to help with special events, and though they are not obliged to show up, most times they do, said Patterson.

News article 'degrading'

Dear Editor,

In regards to your article on the front page of the Jan. 16, 1985 issue of The Western Review, pursuing the misfortunes of Fred and Doug Baumann:

Fred and Doug have built their company into one of the most successful in the area, and the trade they have brought to our town and the employment they have created for local residents, has been of benefit to us all.

Fred Baumann approached his term of councillor in an honest and constructive manner, sacrificing a lot of time from his busy schedule.

These two men should be proud of their accomplishments in Drayton Valley, and as residents of Drayton Valley, we should in turn appreciate that there are business people like Fred and Doug established in our area.

In short, I found this article degrading to the Baumanns, whose contributions to our community in the past years seems to have been taken for granted.

Yours truly,
Martin Urechyshyn

Developers plans for Drayton Valley mill

By Frank Ryan

As the first phase of its timber project, Makin Pulp and Paper Ltd. plan to construct an integrated pulp and paper mill in Drayton Valley and a coating and converting plant near Red Deer.

The total cost of this phase is projected at $115 million. The mill located here, along with the harvesting operations in the area, will employ about 400 people. This figure does not include the additional employment in engineering, construction and marketing. Resources will be drawn from the O'Chiese Timber Block, upon completion of negotiations with the provincial government to establish a forest management agreement.

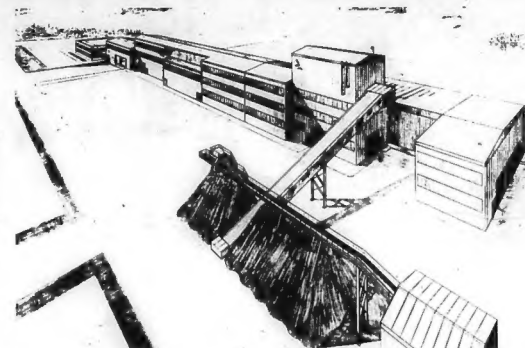

Comment

Fine paper will be produced from the mix of softwoods and hardwoods from the O'Chiese Block, with special emphasis on the utilization of aspen. Expertise now available is bringing aspen out of obscurity into a position of importance in pulp and paper production. Its advantages are obvious in its short maturation period and its present abundance in our forests. Current figures reveal that only 6% of our present hardwood resource is being used.

This project has the advantage of the most advanced technology available in its machinery and equipment. Use of an innovative mechanical process, free of the objectionable odors of traditional mills, will result in cost-effective and efficient production of a variety of high-quality fine papers, along with some pulp for national and international markets.

Makin is in the forefront of a new trend toward more compact plants aimed at high quality, value-added products, resulting from advanced technology and cost efficient methods.

After construction of the plant, Makin will devote nine months to research and development. During this time, paper products will be tested by prospective clients. This testing will lead to refinement for entrance into the commercial production to follow the initial research phase.

Artist's concept of Makin's pulp and paper plant proposed for Drayton Valley.

If this project should fail to materialize, Alberta, and in particular, Drayton Valley, would be the losers. For those whose economy is based on a non-renewable resource, there is one hope of economic stability — that of diversification. Makin offers an economy based on a renewable resource, protected by controlled harvesting practices and expert reforestation techniques. Such an industry offers a stability not found in a climate of fluctuating oil prices.

It offers relief to business people struggling under the pressure of a faltering economy. Employment opportunities will be offered to those now unable to find work. It offers part-time employment wherein farmers may supplement their incomes and students may finance further education. This project gives the Town of Drayton Valley a chance to be part of an exciting development, unique in Western Canada.

Its establishment will inject vitality and optimism into our area and inspire investor confidence. Makin's project is an answer to the new federal government's emphasis on improvement of the economy through the efforts of private enterprise, and it is in line with the provincial government's avowed policy of diversification.

On a municipal level, it means the generation of industrial tax revenues and the strong possibility of spin-off benefits in the establishment of related industries.

Recreation

D.V. Meter waits patiently for their game to begin.

Minor Hockey Week going

Minor Hockey Week got underway in Drayton Valley Sunday afternoon, with about 75 players and coaches on hand for a brief opening ceremony.

After minor hockey president Doug Hill presented each team with special plaques, D.V. Meter got the week started with a see-saw battle against Rocky Mountain House. Roses Well Service Clippers took the ice next against league rivals Innisfail and then the mitey mite teams Ricks' and Strike completed the day's games.

Games continue throughout the week at Centennial Civic Arena.

Although Mayor Bob Mayhew was unable to attend the opening, he expressed his appreciation Monday for the volunteer work that goes into running the minor program in Drayton Valley.

"If it wasn't for the people who put the effort into it, we wouldn't have minor hockey," he said.

"It's volunteers that make this town what it is."

D.V. Meter put on a tough show against Rocky Mountain House as the two teams exchanged goals throughout the first and second periods in the exhibition game. Rocky Mountain House finally took the lead in the third winning 11-7.

After winning their first game last week and tying Olds Saturday, Roses Well Service Clippers lost a 9-3 decision to the Central Alberta Midget 'B' Hockey League's top team, Innisfail.

The Rick Mitey Mites downed their house league rivals Strike 3-2 in the final game.

In an away game, the Norette Oilers dumped Rocky Mountain House 15-2. Greg Pankewicz scored three and had four assists while Scott Kynoch and Brad Allen each had two goals and two assists.

Roses Well Service Clippers lost to Innisfail. Minor Hockey Week is for everyone, including mitey mites.

If you're a Whitecourt Charger and down by 20 points, you might as well look good.

Wildwood wins own tournament

They were sweet victories for the Wildwood Wasps last weekend as both the girls' and boys' basketball teams finished winners at their school's own tournament.

The junior-high girls won their second straight Wildwood Invitational Basketball Tournament, doubling the Whitecourt Chargers 32-16 in the final.

Playing in their first tournament, the boys won straight victories over Duclos and Whitecourt before meeting Vanier Falcons in the final Saturday.

Wasps fell to a 7-0 deficit before the three-minute mark of the first half and trailed by 10 points early in the second.

The teams' defence rallied in the second half, holding Falcons to just 12 points while their offence exploded for 25 points in the 45-38 win.

Stuart Engley shot for 14 points in the first half and added three in the second while Ernie Russell managed 14 second-half points enroute to the win.

"What pleases me most," coach Bob McGregor said, "is they were down by so much and came back. They had self-confidence (and) poise. They just played their hearts out."

Although the bigger team, Wildwood had problems containing Vanier's forwards in the first half, but as the game wore on, the Wasps' bench strength took over.

"They have an excellent six or seven players; we have an excellent 12 players," McGregor said.

The Wildwood boys won their final 45-32.

Blade's Parenteau under review

Drayton Valley Blades' defenceman Dwayne Parenteau is expected to find out about his junior hockey career tomorrow (Thursday).

The Central Alberta Junior "B" Hockey League has called a meeting for Thursday night in Drayton Valley, at which time an altercation between Parenteau and the head referee in a league game last Friday will be discussed. On the ice, it wasn't a good week for the Blades.

They lost four games, 10-5 and 7-6 in overtime on the weekend at Hinton, dropped a home ice 12-2 decision to Barrhead Friday and last week lost 11-2 to Hobbema.

This weekend the Blades host Rocky Mountain House Friday night and Sunday travel to Barrhead.

Lions game sales slow

The Drayton Valley Lions Club have two problems they hope the community can assist them with.

One is the sale of the Drayton Valley board game and secondly, what to do with the funds generated from the sale of the games.

Lion Ken Gremm reports that 189 games from the original order of 500 are still available at local stores.

It was the Lions intent when the game was first introduced, that the funds would go toward Drayton Valley's new indoor Park Valley swimming pool.

But according to Gremm the pool has lots of money and may not need the $7,000 which will be generated from the sale of the 500 board games. If the pool doesn't need the Lions' donation, the service club will be looking for another project.

Last week the Lions donated $1,000 to the Drayton Valley Gymnastics Club to assist with flooring in their facility.

Drayton Valley

Hudson's Bay Company

Come on Canada, meet you at the Bay.

Audience experiences Sweet Grass blues

For Bill Bourne and Jim Morison, it was old hat, simply another show in what is hopefully the beginning of a long series of performances since their reunion only months ago.

For the audience gathered at the Westwinds dining room, it was an opportunity to experience both the warm imagery of the blues and the foot-tapping energy of honky-tonk country.

A pair of native Albertans, Bourne and Morison have re-united the Sweet Grass duo after more than a three-year absence from the music scene and performed here Friday as the second instalment of Drayton Valley Presents' regular season show.

Sweet Grass performed here four years ago before the duo split up to pursue different musical areas — "to get our heads into something different," Bourne says.

Bourne — the rumbling vocalist of the duo — left to perform with the Tanya Hill Weavers, a Celtic-influenced band playing traditional Scottish music; Morison, the bassist, joined up with the late Stan Rogers, an Eastern Canadian musician.

Raised only a few kilometres apart on farms near Innisfail, the pair say the influences from their separate careers have improved the flavor of Sweet Grass.

"I started playing with (bag) pipes, playing rhythm with them," Bourne says, "and I got a whole new idea of what rhythm was like."

"It was a different type of music; the exact opposite of the blues."

Morison had the same experience, playing along the country's east coast.

"It got to the point before where we were flushed out," Morison says.

But working with a different artist, "it expands your awareness of what can be done."

And playing with a musician like Stan Rogers — one "who could pull in on something and make it come to life" — has added to Morison's musical talents.

"It was growth, a learning experience."

Both musicians were also exposed to a different style of audience and literally a world of promoters, but their time away left the pair unprepared for the changes in the music scene here.

"I thought when I came back, I could just plug back into the scene," Morison says, "but there wasn't any scene to plug into."

Re-formed only a month ago and performing mainly weekends until Morison completes a music management course at Red Deer Community College, Sweet Grass is expected to perform in several concerts and festivals and on CBC.

Sweet Grass is also preparing an album of original music for later this year while Bourne has planned some solo performances this spring.

Several objectives cited

Breton council to implement municipal plan

By Phil Courterelle
Breton Village Council will move towards implementing its new General Municipal Plan as a village bylaw following a public information session Jan. 15.

Although the handful of residents attending the meeting at the village's Civic Centre had little comment, Mayor Colleen Lee said so far, there's been no opposition to the plan.

"The people that did attend didn't (voice) any opposition to what we had done and they were told if they had any questions or want any changes, to come in" before the next council meeting, Lee said afterward.

The municipal plan outlines several goals and objectives the present five-man council would like to achieve in the future, including an improved downtown core and attracting additional business and industry.

In the last month, at least five new businesses have opened or have made plans to open, Lee said.

Other objectives include:

- Achieving a population level of 1,000 to 1,500 residents;
- Control both the location and timing of growth to ensure that development does not exceed present municipal services;
- Residential development of 'Breton North';
- Encouraging the recreation board to study the feasibility of implementing a major capital construction program for the expansion of recreation facilities.

One of the few concerns raised by the 10 residents present included additions to the Breton General Hospital.

In its development policies, the municipal plan suggests "the Leduc Foundation should strongly consider an addition for seniors to the hospital (as the hospital was designed to accommodate seniors)."

While the facility was built in 1963 and "is probably in better shape than any other built at the time," hospital administrator Gord Kramer said, "the hospital is not going to last forever."

He emphasized any suggested plans to upgrade or add on to the hospital would have to be decided first at the hospital board level and that more beds for nursing-home care may or may not be desired depending on future situations.

He also questioned the lack of rental accommodation within the village, noting at times for the hospital, it was a detriment to attracting new personnel.

Mayor Lee agreed, "we're always having people coming in (to the village office) and asking about rental accommodation. If we did have some, I know it would be filled." Later, Lee said attracting developers to build such accommodation would most likely be left to the village's new Economic Development Committee rather than council.

"(Rental accommodation) is our biggest problem right now," she said. "We have people coming in, looking to rent, but what we have is filled."

Chamber okays new plan

Breton Chamber of Commerce will support the General Municipal Plan outlined by the village council, chamber president Ted Grayb says.

Chamber members were briefed on the plan, which outlines future goals and objectives for the village, at their regular meeting Jan. 16 in Breton by Mayor Colleen Lee and Battle River Planning Commission representative Gregory Scerbak.

"One of the things that was brought up in the meeting, was that the plan won't be filed (away) and then brought up again in 10 or 15 years," Grayb said, adding local groups should make an effort to see the plan is implemented and council would "certainly have the chamber's co-operation."

"The chamber more or less agrees with the general plan," he said.

The chamber was "quite enthusiastic and liked the main street drawing," Lee said. "They thought it was a very good idea and we should start working towards it."

As part of its goal of a renewed central core, council included in the municipal plan drawings of the village's downtown after "face lifts" to existing buildings and after new ones were constructed.

"It would certainly improve the place if it

(the downtown proposals) were followed through," Grayb said.

While the Chamber of Commerce president said there was nothing in the plan that drew particular interest from the organization, he was "surprised" at the amount of research council did on the project.

"Breton council is pretty progressive," he said, "we feel they're really trying to do something."

The Chamber of Commerce issued a similar report late last year, dealing with the village's business, residential, recreational and industrial situation and future growth, following a task-force set up during the summer.

Locals step up fight against cruise missile

By Phil Courterelle

The Pembina Institute for Appropriate Development (PIAD) has stepped up its fight against testing the cruise missile through a local poster campaign.

The peace and environment group placed posters containing pamphlets and information about the nuclear weapon around Drayton Valley last week, on the same day testing of the cruise resumed in Alberta. PIAD founder Rob Macintosh said.

"We're trying to do some work to help bring public awareness about the cruise (missile) up a bit," Macintosh said Sunday.

"We're not asking people to write us or join us," Macintosh said, instead, "we're asking people to see the cruise missile as a real threat. To start educating themselves."

According to Macintosh, PIAD is also trying to arrange a meeting with local MP and External Affairs Minister Joe Clark to discuss the nuclear arms issue and Canada's "lack" of foreign policy concerning the cruise missile.

The Drayton Valley group is strongly opposed to the cruise missile and its testing in northern Alberta. PIAD has tried to arrange meetings with Clark in the past to discuss the issue and how the testing benefits Canada, but so far have had little response.

PIAD considers the American missile a "first strike" weapon and a threat to the country's position between the superpowers.

"If (the cruise missile) increases our national security, that's one thing, but it's not a deterrence weapon," Macintosh said. "It has nothing to do with deterrence. It's not going to deter the Russians from doing anything."

In a letter to Clark sent about four weeks ago - PIAD also requested "an explanation" for why Canada was among 11 countries opposing a multi-lateral freeze on nuclear weapons proposed at the United Nations several months ago.

To date, Macintosh said, "there's been no explanation put forward as to why" Canada did not support the freeze resolution.

PIAD is also lobbying in support of the $115 million pulp and paper mill proposed by Makin Pulp and Paper Ltd. of Calgary. The company is currently negotiating with the provincial and federal governments for funding and timber rights.

"Subject to environment controls and a totally sustained forestry management program, we're in complete support of this type of long-term project," Macintosh said.

"And both are things that can be easily worked out."

"If there is a shortage of government dollars, we'd like to see it used for constructive jobs" rather than military weapons, he added.

County schools to improve student conduct

By Gall Poon

Noting an obvious lack of etiquette in some county schools, Reeve Norman Bittner recently instigated a board-level order to improve student conduct in local classrooms.

"I became concerned after I came to sit around this table in 1980," he told trustees at a January meeting. "While I recognize the students in our county are above average, I think there are some other things equally important."

"If a high school graduate goes to get a job, he has to learn to say 'good morning', please, and 'thank you' — even if he has high school honors," suggested Bittner.

"I recognize parents are concerned, but we are doing them a disfavor by not helping."

The reeve pointed to the growing number of students wearing caps in classrooms and also, to a lack of courtesy displayed by pupils when responding to teachers.

He referred to the remarks made by an Australian teacher last month, who made a presentation to the school board at the end of an exchange term. The teacher noted Canadian students were not inclined to respond with "I beg your pardon," but rather with a traditional "what" or "eh" answer.

Deputy superintendent Jack Bland, who visits schools on a regular basis cited a particular instance involving a 14-year-old which left him dismayed.

"This student refused to take his cap off — even when the teacher made the effort to ask him to remove it," he said. "There are not many teachers in this situation, but that kid would not take that cap off. I was amazed to see that kid defy such a simple thing."

Assistant superintendent John Bole suggested rules in this case would be difficult to execute, stressing the board must be ready to back up the administration.

"If we can convince them to do it themselves it would be OK, but if we try to enforce it..." he said.

"You can walk into any restaurant in any town and every man wears a hat indoors. We have to convince the parents and the teachers," suggested Bole.

Superintendent Bob MacDonald concurred, noting the best schools are the ones where there is an understanding rather than a written rule.

Scout troop initiates citrus sale in support of jamboree

The 1st Drayton Valley Scout Troop has launched a citrus sale in an effort to raise funds needed to attend the sixth annual Canadian Jamboree this summer.

As much as $12,000 could be required to send 12 local scouts to the jamboree in Guelph, Ontario, troop leader and sale organizer Wayne Pick said.

The citrus drive — which offers oranges and grapefruit direct from Florida — is similar to the spice sales the scouts have held in past, he said.

Once orders for the Royal Temple Oranges or Pink Grapefruit are placed, the fruit is picked in Florida and transported directly to Drayton Valley in refrigerated trucks. Orders should be received three to four days after the order.

"You can't get it any more fresh than that — unless you've picked it," the scout leader said.

Orders, which commence Jan. 21 and end Feb. 11, will be available in two sizes, seven to nine kilograms (15 to 22 pounds) and 15 to 19 kilograms (33 to 44 pounds).

The citrus sale is one of several fund-raising activities both scout and venture groups have undertaken specifically for the Canadian Jamboree.

According to Pick, it could cost as much as $1,000 per boy to attend the annual event, which epitomizes scouting activities.

Thousands of scouts and ventures from around the country will converge on Guelph for the nine-day jamboree, July 8 to 12.

"The scouts get to meet kids from all across Canada," Pick said, "they get to share experiences and ideas with each other and promote the togetherness of the brotherhood (scouting)."

"They get to meet and work with kids in a totally different setting than their own."

While Ventures (16 to 18 year olds) can attend the jamboree with no limitation to numbers, the younger scouts must go through a selection process a month before the actual jamboree.

According to Pick, scouts will attend a special "pre-camp" early in May where they'll be tested and judged on "everything that's relative to scouting," such as orienteering, pioneering and first aid.

Yellowhead patrol keeps a watchful eye

The two year old Yellowhead Range Patrol Association will hold its annual meeting Feb. 28 at 6 p.m. in the Entwistle Community Hall.

"We're asking that all members attend to discuss their concerns," said Cpl. Jim Yasinski, RCMP contact.

Fund raising, election of new officers and a possible guest speaker are tentatively planned for the meeting's agenda.

Similar to the Drayton Valley Rural Crime Watch program, the Yellowhead Range Patrol Association is designed to prevent crime in rural communities.

And it encompasses a substantial area. It runs

10 miles south of Highway 16, stretching to 10 miles north of the highway. Darwell is on the eastern border and western edge is one mile beyond MacKay.

Since the winter of 1982, the Evansburg RCMP have been making routine patrols in the association's coverage area and range patrol members have kept a watchful eye out for suspicious activity.

Much effort was put into organizing the association. "It took a good year to get it off the ground."

In the early stages of the association's formation, meetings were held in Wildwood and Fallis as well as several other communities.

"We're slowly growing now," he added, though it is difficult to maintain interest.

Originally area farmers approached the RCMP and requested the range patrol. And that is exactly what the authorities like to see.

"We like to see people come forward. We don't want to push the program on people."

For a fee of $10, anyone can join the Yellowhead Range Patrol. "They don't have to own farms or acreages."

"They can live in town, too."

Those owning land receive a package with five yellow and black range patrol signs for posting on their property.

Right now the association is short of cash, but would like to purchase more signs for members in addition to placing large signs on the highway, Yasinski said.

Range patrols have been in existence for many years already. "The concept was started years ago in southern Alberta because of cattle rustling."

But that isn't a major problem here, he added.

The success of the range patrol is difficult to gauge but crime has dropped a certain amount in areas that have had it for many years, Yasinski noted.

"I heard a comment from a Seba Beach man who had lost cattle in past years that since the signs have been put up, there haven't been any problems with the cattle."

Board looking at pool prices

The local recreation and culture board will recommend town council add quarterly admission passes for Park Valley Pool.

Concerned with the $350 price tag for the family season pass and problems some families may have paying that amount at one time, the board made motion to include three, four-month quarterly passes in the pool's fee schedule.

At present, the schedule includes admission prices for daily, 10 swims and the season pass.

Board members generally agreed another alternative should be offered, but had a lengthy discussion on what type.

With the present economic conditions in town, there'll be a lot of people unable to pay the family ticket price at one time, board member Chris Kelly said.

"I know people that won't be able to spend that kind of money," he said.

The board defeated a motion, introduced by Kelly, for a six-month pass but then endorsed a motion by Les Bannerman to introduce an installment plan with three equal, advance payments as an option to paying the full $350.

Also, the payments will be available only at the beginning of each quarterly session, starting Feb. 1, 1986.

Well known Evangelist believes

Jeske to speak at revival

Canadian Evangelist Merv Jeske will be at the Brightwood Youth Ranch this weekend for an old fashioned revival meeting.

Jeske will be speaking Saturday and Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Merv Jeske believes that men and women today need that same gospel that Jesus preached. His desire is to see the world evangelized for Jesus.

Jeske, a born-again minister, believes in the power of the blood of Christ and that without the shedding of blood there is no remission for sin. Within his life, he has experienced the miracle power of God and believes that nothing is impossible with God, for He doesn't change. He is the same yesterday, today and forever.

Evangelist Merv Jeske has ministered this gospel of Christ throughout this nation of Canada and overseas.

Merv Jeske will speak at the Brightwood Youth Ranch.

We have the right to limit quantities

The woes of battling the bulge

By Frank Ryan

The assignment sounded easy enough. A feature on dieting.

Because of my experiences in a continuing battle of the waistline, this is my story.

Most of my life I've been a leading candidate for some sort of diet plan. And, over the years, I've tried most of them, including Weight Watchers, Diet Centre, TOPS, the grapefruit, egg and cheese diets to simply starving myself.

As long as I can remember, I was heavy.

Up until the time I completed high school, being overweight was a fact of life, something I learned to live with.

It's really been the past 20 years that I have been on more than my share of diets and, for the most part, they worked.

But one thing I discovered about dieting was — you had to want to diet. The family doctor, your mother or wife could suggest a diet, but that final decision had to be yours.

Once you make that commitment, it's easy. One of the biggest commitments I made for myself was in 1978. I joined Weight Watchers.

"There were immediate changes. I needed new clothes. My pants (I still have one pair today) dropped from a 58-inch waist to a 38; my shirt and shoe sizes were also affected."

The scales tipped (almost over) close to 300 pounds. I remember the instructor asking me what I'd like to weigh. When I didn't have an answer, she wrote a goal weight of 200 pounds on my chart.

I remember my first night at Weight Watchers as if it happened yesterday.

I lost seven pounds that first week. Then, a mere half pound the second week. I was disgusted and almost quit the program. But, as I was to find out later, there's an adjustment period in most diets.

But I'm glad I stayed with it. Seven months later I had lost 125 pounds.

There were immediate changes. I needed new clothes. My pants (I still have one pair today) dropped from a 58-inch waist to a 38, my shirt and shoe sizes were also affected. And because I had changed my hair style over that seven-month period, there were people in my home town that didn't recognize me.

"On again, off again — that's my way of life. At least I've nailed down the reason for gaining — my love for FOOD."

If you've ever lost 100 pounds, you'll know how I felt.

My weight stayed under 200 for several months, then it was time to diet again.

On again, off again — that's my way of life. At least I've nailed down the reason for gaining — it's my love for FOOD.

While it was Weight Watchers who first proved to me that I could lose weight, it has been the Diet Centre and TOPS who have provided the necessary inspiration in recent years.

It's obvious I'm going to have to search these people out in Drayton Valley as the tale of scales says it's time to diet again.

One word of caution. Before jumping into any diet, check with your doctor and check with him throughout the diet. Or check with the people offering the plan, they are usually very helpful.

I've never regretted being overweight because I wasn't a participant as a youngster. I turned to working behind the scenes, mostly in sports, which eventually led to a career in journalism.

ETDIETDI
DIET

By Janice McGregor

What do Stillman, Atkins and Scarsdale have in common? They are all names of popular diets that promise quick weight loss by following a strict eating plan for a short time. And they have all achieved a good deal of popularity with diet-conscious people across the country. Unfortunately, most dieters on these "crash" programs tend to gain back their lost pounds almost as fast as they shed them.

These fast diets just cannot be relied upon to re-educate bad eating habits.

Since eating and exercising are habits we all learn, there's no reason we can't learn to do them differently. But because habits take a long time to form they consequently take a long time to break.

Behavior modification is a technique which brings on weight loss by changing eating habits permanently. It works on the premise of identifying and controlling those patterns of eating and exercise that lead to obesity.

"Many overweight people do not realize when or how much they eat. Behavior modification suggests they keep track of the types and amounts of foods eaten."

Before anyone can lose weight, they must examine what has made them overweight in the first place. The obvious answer of course is eating too much food — taking in more calories than is expended in exercise.

Stress, boredom, depression, anger and happiness can influence our eating habits. Overweight people often use food as an excuse to celebrate or as a solution to problems. Many of our social activities, such as birthdays, office breaks and family get-togethers also focus on food. Food advertising, fast foods and trends to eating out have all had their effect on obesity — eating has become more of a conditioning process rather than a biological need for food. A dieter must overcome these factors in order to achieve permanent and successful weight loss.

Many overweight people do not realize when or how much they eat. Behavior modification suggests they keep track of the types and amounts of foods eaten and the activities or situations they are involved in while eating i.e. watching TV.

"Concentrate on your food, serving smaller portions and chewing food slowly — savor every bite."

The goals of most dieters is to become slim and have better health. But unless the weight goal is realistic, the dieter is setting herself/himself up for failure. A weight loss of 1 kg (1-2 pounds) per week is reasonable.

Choose a specific location to do all your eating in, and make sure you do not engage in any other activities while eating. Instead, concentrate on your food, serving smaller portions and chewing food slowly — savor every bite. Prepare smaller quantities of food and don't be tempted to clean up leftovers. If you are hungry, try to wait at least 15 or 20 minutes before eating, as hunger pangs can sometimes disappear or be delayed.

New habits must be learned little by little, and the changes in eating style and lifestyle require a big commitment. Be prepared to stick to your new habits consistently if you are to maintain your weight loss.

Losing weight is no easy task.

Helpful hints

If you are seriously considering dieting, there's lots of help available in Drayton Valley. Mary Poloway is owner-manager of the Diet Centre located in the basement of the Westwind Motor Inn.

TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) meet every Thursday, 6:30 p.m. weigh-in and 7:30 p.m. meeting. Call Linda Walper at 727-3587 for more information.

Overeaters Anonymous meet every Monday, 7:30 p.m. in Room 15 at St. Anthony School.

All three agencies report memberships increase during the month of January, with many newcomers coming because of a New Year's resolution. Others come because their clothes don't fit any longer, while others prepare for holidays.

Both the Diet Centre and TOPS have people who have lost more than 100 pounds and others who have topped the 40-pound weight figure.

Six members of TOPS will be travelling to Medicine Hat shortly to participate in provincial recognition days, a time when weight losers are officially recognized for their achievements.

So, if you want to shape up, there's no excuse. There's lots of people willing to help you in Drayton Valley.

Evansburg initiates Crime Stopper program

The Evansburg Crime Stoppers program has begun and Evansburg RCMP Constable Tim Davidson is hoping the program will help to solve some old and new cases on file.

Davidson outlined the Crime Stoppers program stating, "It's a community service awards program that combines police, media and the public in crime-solving efforts in Alberta."

The program combats two major problems in the community: apathy — by offering cash awards; and fear — by offering anonymity.

Davidson noted that there is a local Crime Stoppers board consisting of service club representatives and businessmen. The committee oversees raising funds for the awards and makes the award payments. All contributions to the Crime Stoppers program are tax deductible.

The Evansburg Legion had earlier kicked off the awards fund with a $150 donation and others are expected to contribute. Davidson said they welcome all donations, big or small. The local committee issues a temporary receipt and a tax deductible receipt follows later from Edmonton. Donations can be mailed to Evansburg Crime Stoppers, General Delivery, Evansburg, T0E 0T0.

The Evansburg Crime Stoppers program covers the area of the Evansburg detachment, from Darwell to Nojack, Davidson said. The Crime Stoppers area is a satellite of the Edmonton parent group, he added, in the Red Deer North division. The toll free number for Crime Stoppers is 1-800-922-TIPS (922-8477).

The program offers cash awards for information leading to an arrest. Davidson said the program welcomes information on anything — it isn't just confined to the publicized crimes. It is also open to information on any criminal activity anywhere in Alberta or across Canada.

Monies available for youth year celebration

Provincial funding is available for local governments, organizations or individuals who organize activities to celebrate International Youth Year in Alberta.

Young people must be involved in initiating, planning and carrying out the project, says a pamphlet issued by the Alberta Youth Year secretariat.

The target group for the program is young people 15 to 18 years of age.

Randy Strocki, assistant director of county Parks and Recreation, says the money will go to those projects which affect the greatest number of young people.

Projects in small communities have an equal opportunity for approval with those in larger centres because the percentage of youth involvement is the important factor.

The county does not approve the projects but Parks and Recreation has the resources to assist groups or individuals in preparing their application, Strocki says.

A project developed by one organization, municipality or individual is eligible to receive up to $2,500. If more than one municipality or individual get together to organize an activity they may receive up to $5,000.

A project with provincial scope undertaken by a number of organizations may receive up to $10,000.

The money may be used to cover equipment, transportation, facility rental and staffing costs.

The first deadline for applications is Feb. 1.

A second deadline has been set for May 15.

Support and participation by others in the community will benefit an application's consideration.

Crime Stoppers response disappointing

For the past two months, the details of unsolved crimes have been reported in the Western Review as a part of the Crime Stoppers program.

But despite the combined efforts of the local RCMP and the paper, public response to the program has been disappointing.

"We haven't had one call," said Cat. Ken Patterson.

The Drayton Valley program isn't the only one that didn't look promising at the start. "The Stony Plain detachment, which is larger than ours, didn't receive any calls in the first year of its program."

There could be several reasons for the lack of co-operation from the public, he said.

"Maybe no one around knows anything about the crimes, or people who read about it don't have any information or the ones who read the articles know something but don't want to say anything."

CRIME STOPPERS
1-800-922-TIPS

Another problem could be the oldness of the crimes. "Some of the featured crimes are more than a year old."

"People may just not remember anything about them."

Patterson said the program will likely be changed so that a Crime Stoppers article will appear in the paper once a month instead of every week. "And the crimes will be more recent," he added.

He is optimistic that in time the public will co-operate to help solve crimes. "Hopefully we will meet with success."

"Sooner or later something will happen."

The Mayerthorpe detachment received a tip on their first Crime Stoppers case, he said.

"And Whitecourt has a successful program going."

Russia-born Canadian suffered many hardships

By Donna Haukedal

The majority of Canadians know little of the hunger, fear, heartache, loneliness and hard work experienced by those who were forced to flee their homes in the old countries during WW1. Yet tucked away in senior citizens' lodges, hospitals, apartments and private homes are countless stories of such experiences. Emelia Dusterhoft shares some of her experiences with us.

Emelia was born in a village in Russia. She celebrated her 90th birthday in December, 1984.

At 16 she married Gustav Dusterhoft. When WW1 broke out four years later, Gustav was called to serve in the Russian army, leaving Emelia with two small children.

Emelia, her children and her mother-in-law lived together until the Russian soldiers forced them from their home. For the next two or three months they hid wherever they could, in bushes or abandoned buildings, often sleeping under wagons. Many villages were burned down, and many who could not get away were taken to Siberia.

When it was safe to return to their home they found it occupied by someone else whose home had been burned.

A terrible flu was making its rounds and people were dying like flies. Emelia's mother-in-law was the first in their family to succumb to it. Within two weeks of one another she lost both children, two and four years of age. People were dying faster than caskets could be made. Emelia stood in line and waited for a casket to be made. She had no contact with Gustav and no way of doing so. His cousin had lost her home, so she moved in with Emelia.

Emelia told a story which she calls a miracle. It happened between the death of her mother-in-law and her children. There was little food to be had, and near where she lived was a wheat field, not a good field as the wheat was lying down. People would gather this wheat and bring it home to make flour. Emelia also gathered some and made bundles to take home and thresh out the grain by hand. From this wheat she baked bread. From these few bundles she pounded out a sack of wheat. She also had potatoes and the soldiers in the area were hungry. For ten cents Emelia would make them a meal.

Emelia decided to try farming and bought a cow and a pig. She already had a horse, but before she could get this venture off the ground, the Russian soldiers returned home, forcing them to leave again. But not without her animals. She tied the cow to the wagon but was in a quandary about what to do with the pig. So she tied a string to one of its feet and led it behind the wagon. Emelia still laughs when she recalls how well that pig followed.

After fleeing for the second time, German soldiers took them to Poland. Here they were housed in large brick buildings. They cut branches from trees to make beds. They worked for landlords who didn't treat them well so, Emelia and her neighbors went to work in gravel pits where she worked for a year shovelling away the dirt which had separated from the gravel. The year was 1917. "The worst was, we were just about starving," she said. "The work wasn't so bad if we had something to eat." Food was rationed and each received one and one half loaves of bread a week and a few potatoes that they bought from farmers. She remembers having a slice of bread for breakfast, some potatoes for lunch, and a piece of bread for supper.

Emelia still had no news of her husband as there was no mail service.

She went to live with her parents for a year. In 1918, when war ended, she received notice that Gustav was alive in a German prison camp. Apparently when the war ended some of the men decided to walk home but had not been discharged and were still wearing their Russian uniforms. They were picked up by German soldiers and detained in the camp.

After receiving permission to go to Germany, Emelia was able to join her husband. It had only been four years, but so much had happened.

Gustav had left a wife and two children. When they were re-united she was alone.

Dusterhofts continued to live in Germany until 1927, working and hoping to buy a place of their own. But, with inflation their money was worth nothing. "You couldn't buy a pack of matches with a sack of money," she states. The money was called in and re-issued. A 500 million mark that Emelia brought to Canada wasn't worth the paper it was printed on, she said.

In 1920 the Dusterhofts had a baby girl and another in 1922.

Emelia and Gustav decided to start over and in 1927 they arrived in Canada with $200.

They stayed in Tomahawk with the friends that sponsored them, then moved to Spruce Grove and rented a house from a farmer they worked for. The Depression hit and another struggle began.

They went stooking bundles, just the two of them on a 215-acre field. "It wouldn't have been so bad if people would have given us something to eat," Emelia says. All this work paid their $10 a month house rent.

The children, now aged seven and five, had to be left home alone all day. "So that wasn't so nice either," she says.

Winter was coming and there was no money for groceries. Gustav went to work on a threshing crew. They found another house to rent and here a son was born.

Emelia recalled the time when her husband herded a cow on foot from Tomahawk to the Spruce Grove area. Later, when they bought land at Tomahawk, he herded their small herd back. Here they built a log house and went farming.

When Gustav died in 1962, Emelia moved into Tomahawk where she resided until moving to the Wishing Well Apartments in 1980.

She still bakes her own bread. "Bread is really no work. I can't get used to that store bread," she says.

Emelia has two daughters, Adel Steinke of Stony Plain and Alma Reich of Tomahawk; one son, Otto of Drayton Valley; 10 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Come Believing God For Your Miracle

Merv Jeske

Jesus Christ is the same, the bible tells us that he came not: To the Troubled he brings peace; for the sick he has provided healing; for the problems of man he is the answer. If you have doubts and problems, why not let Jesus solve them. For He is more than able. It may be that you are sick physically - trust him for your Miracle.

Joan Duckett resigns

Powerhouse loses co-ordinator

The Powerhouse Further Education Council in Drayton Valley is about to loose one of its key personnel.

Joan Duckett will be leaving her position as co-ordinator after three years to spend more time with her family.

It has been Duckett's job to set up non-credit courses, which originally included fitness, arts and crafts, but were later replaced with personal development courses.

It's obvious that the people of Drayton Valley and area liked the courses offered, as enrolment last year topped the 1,400 mark.

Citizen of the Week

A new co-ordinator will be hired shortly, at which time Duckett will leave the council for a career in the home with her husband and their two children.

Joan Duckett was co-ordinator for three years.

Lions Club makes donations

The Drayton Valley Lions Club have made a significant donation to the local gymnasts.

After hearing a request for funds from president Celina Miller, the Lions decided to donate $1,000 toward the cost of improving flooring conditions at the gymnastics centre in the old band building behind H. W. Pickup Junior High School.

The gymnastic club had asked for $3,300 for flooring and another $1,000 for mats but it was the general feeling of the Lions Club that they would start the fund-raising effort with a $1,000 contribution. Other groups and organizations in the community have been approached to aid the gymnastic club.

In another move, the Lions Club authorized a $200 donation to the cubs/scouts organization. This money comes from the Lions' recent distribution of telephone books. The cubs assisted with this project.

The Lions have set the dates for their 16th annual Evergreen Rodeo. It will be held June 7-9 with events to include a parade, fireworks, heavy horse pull, two dances and the possibility of a rodeo queen contest is being given serious consideration.

The club will also hold their annual casino March 8 and 9 at the legion.

Two dates to circle on the calendar are Feb. 11, which is the final date for ladies to become charter members of the newly-formed Lioness Club, and April 20, a date set aside for the Drayton Valley Lions Charter night to be held at Evansburg.

Ice sports underway in Alder Flats area

Muriel was the lucky Christmas draw winner of a gingerbread house from Grandma Bee's in Brelton.

Laura and Coleen Zukowski were up at 5 a.m. on Jan. 8 to go with their dad, Michael, to watch him set fish nets in Buck Lake.

Lars Larson spent a week in Edmonton at a Uniform convention.

Curling and hockey are now in full swing. Before curling started, the ice used for hockey school with Harold Maciborsky from Wetsakwin making a return visit to teach and coach.

Figure skating is also underway and is taught by Wendy Poudrier with the assistance of Sheila Borle, Janet Moody and Coleen Kurley. Practice is every Monday evening at 6:30 p.m., with children ranging in age from 4 to 14 years of age.

Jan. 9 the Alder Flats girls ringette team played their first exhibition game at Bentley against the Bentley girls. Although the game ended in a 20-1 score in favor of the opposition, the girls had a lot of fun. The single goal was made by No. 22, Samantha Russell.

Now that the girls have a better idea what the game is all about they are sure to improve and support would be appreciated at any of the home games.

Ringette is a non-contact ice game similar to hockey but played with a rubber ring approximately five inches in diameter. The girls practice Tues. nights at 6:30 p.m. at the Alder Flats rink and everyone is welcome to come and watch.

Dwight Kellgren is coaching this newly-formed team.

The Mighty Mitts played their first hockey game of the season at Warburg Dec. 22. The final score was 12-7 in favor of Warburg. Scoring for the Alder Flats team were Trent Bohning, (3), Chad Kellgren, (2), with David Poudrier and Regan Clemmer each scoring one goal.

Kellgren is coaching this team with the assistance of Ross Larson.

The Mitts, coached by Bill Moody and assisted by Harvey Miller, will be playing their first game at Winfield Saturday at 11 a.m.

The Pee Wees have played at Warburg recently. I would appreciate someone phoning me with information about the game.

The Winfield Lions annual senior citizens supper will be held Jan. 23 at 6 p.m. in the Winfield Recreation Centre for seniors 60 years and over. There will be prizes for the eldest men and ladies.

Anyone needing a ride from Alder Flats please call a local Lions member.

COUNTY OF
PARKLAND NO. 31

NOTICE OF PUBLIC OPEN HOUSE MEETING TO DEAL WITH THE PROPOSED MAGNOLIA ROAD ALIGNMENT (SECONDARY ROAD NO. 757)

TIME - 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. Saturday, January 26, 1985

LOCATION - Magnolia Community Hall, located on the Magnolia Road Approximately 1 1/4 miles north of Highway 16.

The County of Parkland No. 31 together with Alberta Transportation will hold a public open house meeting to make information available on alignment alternatives being considered in conjunction with the proposed future reconstruction of Secondary Rd No. 757 (commonly known as the Magnolia Road) from Highway No. 16 to the north boundary of the County of Parkland. More specifically the section of the road in and adjacent to Sections 20 and 29-54-6-W5 approximately 7 miles north of Highway 16 will be the subject of the meeting.

Representatives of County Council, Alberta Transportation and the County Engineering Department will be present to explain and clarify the alignment alternatives being considered, to respond to any related questions and to hear or receive any representation that might be made by any individual or group. Any affected property owners in the area as well as users of Secondary Road 757 in the County of Parkland and County of Lac Ste. Anne are invited to attend this meeting.

Wildwood economic committee hires planner

Economic development is the hope for the future growth and prosperity of the area and the Wildwood and District Economic Development Committee has taken steps to ensure that future with the hiring of an economic research planner. Sheila Green started in the position Dec. 18.

The position is being funded by a P.E.P. (Priority Employment Program) grant sponsored by the Wildwood and District Agricultural Society. The grant expires at the end of April, though the position will be setting "ground rules for an economic master planner" and possible permanent job.

Green said she has been active meeting with various community organizations to make them aware of her position, projects in progress and long-term projects for the village.

One of the first projects to "get off the ground" was the implementation of the "Good Merit Awards" system. Green said that three awards have been given to date. The basis for making the awards is to recognize good deeds — projects that benefit the community or that improve or upgrade the village.

Green noted that they are a positive initiative; "an incentive to get people motivated."

The first winners included the Village of Wildwood for stringing Christmas lights and setting up a speaker system playing Christmas carols on the mainstreet during the Christmas season.

Wildwood Legion No. 149 was recognized for the excellent job they are doing since taking over the bottle depot. Green said they have cleaned the place up and offer very good, friendly service.

Wildwood School received the other award. Nichols, principal and staff were recognized for their quick response to what could have been a dangerous situation. Green said there had been incidents of attempts to pick up children at the schools in Drayton Valley, Evansburg and Wildwood. When Nichols was advised of the incidents, an immediate assembly was called, notices went home to the parents, and the students became very conscious of who was around the school (ie. noting license numbers of cars picking up children.) "Their quick response to the situation was deserving of the award," Green said.

The Economic Development Committee is supporting the idea of a basic housekeeping campaign with short-term and long-term objectives. Green said it is amazing what a coat of paint can do to improve the appearance of a place. Short-term goals are to make the public aware that the village that looks attractive, attracts the people. She added that major projects such as building facilities and "definitely improving the Highway 16 appearance" would fall into the housekeeping campaign's long-term plans.

Improving Highway 16 appearance would make it more attractive for people travelling the highway to stop and come into Wildwood. Ideas for improvement include possibly fencing and flower beds, she said.

In her position, Green said she is working with both the provincial and federal governments to promote economic development.

Landmark destroyed

A familiar face on the corner of Wildwood's main street fell to make way for progress. Michalchuk Stores has plans for a new grocery store on the property. The mainstreet building was built in the mid-30s and had served the community in a variety of capacities over the years. In 1939 it was the Post Office and a general store under proprietor Howard Singleton. It also served as a restaurant, grocery and drygoods store over the years, though it was vacant for some time before the sale.

Michalchuk said they have the blueprint for the new store but are now studying the feasibility of construction at this time. Their original plans were to have the new store constructed, hopefully, by Sept. 1, 1985. However, Michalchuk said he could not commit himself to when construction would start. "It could be tomorrow, or it may take two to five years," he concluded.

The big whopper

Louis MacLack and partner display the whopper they pulled while fishing several weeks ago. The commercial fisherman brought the seven-pound jackfish to The Western Review after battling the monster at Pigeon Lake.

NORTH AND SOUTH — Elizabeth Taylor, Robert Mitchum and Kerrie Alley have joined the cast of "North and South," a ten-hour ABC miniseries. The drama is based on John Galsworthy's best-seller, which chronicles the turbulent events that lead to the Civil War.

Elizabeth Taylor

The film follows two families on opposite sides of the conflict from 1842 until the end of the war in 1865. The Manns, South Carolina plantation owners, and the Hazards, Pennsylvania industrialists, first meet at West Point. Immediately they become caught in the widening gulf between the North and the South.

Miss Taylor will play a flamboyant proprietor of a New Orleans bordello. Mitchum stars as an Irish military surgeon who is looking for the proper husband for his spirited daughter. Miss Alley portrays a 19th-century abolitionist. The miniseries is scheduled to begin production in February.

THE WOMBLES — The

public just can't seem to get enough of magical little people. Look at the success of J.R.R. Tolkien's Hobbits or, more recently, the Smurfs. Now meet "The Wombles," musical creatures who love nature and hate garbage.

"The Wombles" will appear in a one-hour special and a series of 26 half-hour shows for syndication this fall. Frank Gorshin will play a villain, while Abe Vigoda will play Gorshin's evil henchman.

Abe Vigoda

WIZARD OF OZ — CBS will broadcast the classic motion picture "The Wizard of Oz" for the 19th time Friday, March 1. The film was first shown on CBS on Nov. 3, 1955. Since then, it has aired 27 times on network television.

The MGM masterpiece opened in August 1939, and became a favorite of both young and old. It propelled relatively unknown teenager Judy Garland to fame. It also starred veteran actors Ray Bolger, Jack Haley and Bert Lahr.
